Why buying overseas off-plan property?

Buying an overseas property off-plan means that you are buying it at today's prices, But When construction begins , the value of the units begins to rise steadily. A completed show home is then available for viewing and buyers take on less risk as they now need not rely entirely on plans.

Buyers begin to purchase units while construction is in progress and as they sell, so the price of the remaining units rises steadily. A phase payment structure is often in operation which reflects the increasing value of the properties. To early investors, this means that should you decide to sell your property at this stage, it will be worth considerably more already than when you made your initial purchase and paid the 40% deposit.
